

EXCESS TISSUE - cancer

Disclosure: We would like to remind the reader that we are not doctors. We do not diagnose. We do not cure. We assist the body in balancing itself so that it may function at a higher capacity. The removal of negative energy and inviting positive energy into a person does not replace the professional advice and methods of a doctor. We do not encourage anyone to stop seeing their doctors. We encourage readers and clients to learn all they can about their methods available to treat their symptoms and to make their own conclusions on how to best heal their bodies.

Explanation: Let's start with two questions the question...

1. What is "excess tissue?"

We believe that excess tissue is what the body calls the cells that we recognize as cancer. There are two forms to excess tissue that the body recognizes:

- Excess dense tissue: is what the medical field calls malignant cancer, which is actively spreading.
- Excess soft tissue: is what the medical field calls benign cancer, which is not spreading.

In addition to the excess tissue, the body recognizes skin cancer as excess cells.

2. Why does a body have excess tissue?

Excess tissue (cancer) is commonly found in small quantities in within each person. There is no concern for this, since the body is able to efficiently break it down and dispose of it. When the body's ability to break it down is compromised, the excess will begin to spread, which is exactly why it is considered to be "excess." There are multiple reasons that lead to this; however, we believe that the primary imbalance within the body that leads to cancer is negative energy. When negative energy is being stored within the body it requires space as in a physical substance to be stored in.

What happens when the space designated to store the negative energy is full of either positive or negative energy? That is when the body needs to begin forming more space to store more energy. Depending upon how a person's body is programmed and location of the negative energy will determine what type of excess is created. For instance, one person may form excess within their fat cells. Another person may form excess within their bones. Another person may form excess with their in their candida (yeast), leading to an "overgrowth."

We have also discovered that as the body breaks down excess dense tissue it becomes excess soft tissue. The method we use with the Spirit Code is gentle and will remove the excess tissue in a timely and safe manner. To begin with, we need to identify the energies that are being stored within the excess tissue and then release them. (Note: Not 100% of the energies always need to be released, just enough so that the body will be able to manage the excess in a way that a healthy body does.) In conjunction with releasing the negative energy, we invite energetic compounds into the excess tissue for the purpose of breaking it down and healing the damage that had been caused.

Monitor the progress of the cancer carefully. If the excess tissue is broken down too rapidly, the excess tissue will flood into the blood stream, causing great concern. It is important to muscle test to determine whether or not there is excess dense or excess soft tissue within the bloodstream and whether or not it needs to be broken down within the bloodstream.

Two compounds are provided below. They will each remove excess dense tissue and excess soft tissue. There is a catch though... People's bodies are different, so in some people the first compound will break down excess dense tissue and the second compound will break down the excess soft tissue. In others it will be the opposite, the first compound will break down the excess soft tissue and the second compound will break down the excess dense tissue.

There is another item of interest. When excess tissue breaks away from healthy tissue a gap is created between the remaining healthy cells. This gap is identified by the body as "missing tissue." The energetic compounds that are formed will assist in closing these gaps.

The intensity of the energy within excess tissue is intense, even after releasing the negative energy that was being stored in it. Even with the steps provided, the process of breaking down the tissue can cause some intense pain depending upon the severity of the cancer. Those who are in stage one or two may not notice, but for practitioner who are assisting their clients with stage three or four, please warn them that they may experience some mild to severe pain.

There are a few extra steps that can be taken to lower the intensity of the energy within cancer. To begin with, we can neutralize and defuse it; although, this will only be effective for approximately 24hrs. Muscle test to see the appropriate length of time in which you can neutralize and defuse it and then set the intention for it to be done. Said as follows, "I set the intention for the excess Another step that can be done to lower the intensity is converting the excess tissue and missing tissue into an idea that is exceedingly positive, such as excess love, excess healing and excess faith. (Note: we can't magically convert the excess tissue into vitamin C, but the next best thing is converting it into a positive idea). This conversion doesn't have a time limit; although, the excess tissue formed after the conversion will not be affected by the conversion, so it is best to identify any newly formed excess tissue each appointment for the purpose of converting it.

3. Release the negative energy that was being stored within the excess tissue – (identify this through muscle testing). There may be multiple energies being stored. The energy compounds provided may be invited into the body before the releases. Following each energy release that is targeting the excess tissue, check the amount of time needed for the each energy compound to see if they need to be adjusted.
- Neutralize / Defuse the excess dense and/or soft tissue
 - Convert the excess dense tissue into the idea of excess love
 - Convert the excess soft tissue into the idea of excess healing
 - Convert the missing tissue into the idea of faith
 - a. What energy is being stored in the excess dense tissue? Most often it is trauma energy. Do some trauma steps to remove the energy being stored in the dense tissue so the body can begin healing.
 - i. Trauma - <https://www.spiritcode.net/trauma-work.html>
 - ii. Dark energies - <https://www.spiritcode.net/dark-energies.html>
 - b. Do this Light healing treatment

 - c. Do the “healing the body” step with the atmospheric energy
 - i. <https://www.spiritcode.net/step-12.html>
 - d. What foods would be the most beneficial to aide your body in breaking down the excess dense tissue? Your body needs to use its energy on healing, not on digestion. So seek out foods that are simple and plant based to detox. Avoid sugar, meat, dairy, and processed foods. Muscle test your diet:
 1. Can my body digest this?
 2. Can my body absorb this?
 3. Does my body want this?
 4. Is this good for me?
 5. What are the vibrations of this food?
 6. Is this food difficult to digest?
 - e. Start eating Budwig cream daily – this is a protein that your body can digest easily.

 - f. What supplements does your body desire to aide in healing?
 - i. I recommend going to a health food store and testing different supplements. I typically choose the supplements with the highest vibrations and the ones I need the least amount of (this means it's the most potent)

4. Excess Dense Tissue: Provided below are two energetic compounds for excess dense tissue. Muscle test to see which one is appropriate for the client. You may find one needs a little bit of tweaking. Or you may find that neither of the will work. If this is the case, please take the time to go through the process of forming a new energetic compound, because the compounds are critical to the healing of excess dense tissue.

6. Missing tissue: Identify if the body has any missing tissue. This is where the cancer cells used to be but have separated from the normal cells. We “replace” this missing tissue with the “idea of faith.” This space needs to be sealed by filling up the space. You may need to check for traumas associated with the missing tissue too. Muscle test to see what energies are appropriate to fill this space. The number of energies needed will be influenced by the size of the space. It will typically take five to ten energies if you find some effective ones. We recommend the following:
- a. I replace the missing tissue with the idea of faith
 - b. I fill the idea of faith with white powder, gold pro-biotics, O17, mumio, omega 3, chlorophyll, vitamin D (identify other vitamins and minerals), etc.
 - c. Test to see what percentage of the missing tissue remains
 - i. Note: the percentage should decrease (Ex. 39% --> 17%)
